

Anthropology

A student with a Bachelor's degree in anthropology has acquired critical analysis skills, oral and written communication skills, "people" skills, and a great understanding of many different cultures, which have many applications in public service, political activism and the private sector.

The discipline is divided into the fields of cultural, physical, linguistic, archeology, and applied anthropology. An emphasis in Cultural Anthropology could prepare one for work in development, community organization, policy analysis, and social research. Linguistic Anthropologists may work in the areas of inter-cultural communication, language revitalization, and literacy programs. An emphasis in Archaeology yields prospects for entry-level employment or degree-related careers with one of many Federal and State agencies and private cultural resource management firms. Physical Anthropologists have the skills which are useful in the growing sector of health related occupations and traditional research. Anthropology graduates are regarded as having excellent preparation for professional training in Law, Medicine, Public Health, School Administration, and Urban Planning.

Related Career Titles for Anthropology Majors

Health and Human Services

Counselor	Advocate	Physician	Social Worker
Family Service Counselor	Health Science Administrator Job	Public Health Educator	Transplant Registry Database Manager
Genetic Counselor	Medical Anthropologist	Social Service Agency Planner

Research/Education

Museum Education Director	Academic Advisor/Counselor	Foundation Program Manager	Museum Curator/Technician
Anthropologist	College Professor	Genealogist	Collections Manager
Archaeologist	Computer Simulation Model Designer	Librarian	Paleontologist
Art Conservator	Behavioral Science Advisor	Marketing Researcher	Teacher, Elementary/Secondary
Archivist	Contract Archaeologist	Linguist	Scientific Linguist
Ethnologist	Field Archaeologist	Media Planner	Social Science Analyst
Bilingual/Bicultural Program Specialist	Forensic Anthropologist	Teacher of English as a Second Language (ESL)	Multicultural Education Specialist / Director

Government/Public Service

Cultural Artifact Specialist	Bureau of Indian Affairs Researcher	Immigration Inspector	Peace Corps Volunteer
Community Development Officer	Cultural Resource Manager	International Agency Representative	Probation Officer
Community Planner	Foreign Affairs Officer	National/State Park Interpreter	Rural Development Officer
Congressional Committee Staff Director	Friend of the Court Caseworker	Park Service Supervisor/Director	Social Insurance Representative
Head Start Program Director	Coroner/Medical Examiner	Peace Corps Area Director	State/Federal Government Policy Analyst
Urban Planner

Business

Employment Recruiter	Actuary	Consultant	Journalist
Advertiser	Biographer	Tour Guide	Technical Writer
Staff Training Specialist	Industrial Psychologist	Management Consultant	International Visitor Escort/Consultant
Union Legal Counsel	Marketing Manager	Travel Agent/Guide	Media Specialist
Human Resources Manager	Employee Relations Specialist	Loan Officer/Bank Officer Travel	Corporate Communications Consultant
Management Consultant	Environmental Impact Assessment Researcher	Personnel Management Specialist	